Walk Summary:	This walk will follow the Mitchell River from Billy Goat Bend and the Amphitheatre downstream to the Den of Nargun. This is one of the few un-dammed rivers in Victoria with great rapids and plenty to look at, including rocky bluffs on the Eastern shore and remnant rainforest gullies on the Western shore. The walk follows the Western side of the river on a well-made track which passes through numerous shady gullies. This area is known for its diversity of flora including the Xanthorrhoea Minor, a small version of the grass tree, which may be in flower at this time. Near the end of the walk we will visit the Den of Nargun and Deadcock Den, places which are especially significant for indigenous Australians. Please register with the Walk Leader before the day of the walk.
