Walk Summary:	This walk is provided at short notice as the recent heavy rains suggests there is a good chance to see Roaring Mag in all her glory. Generally this walk is one of the clubs most anticipated walks within the Mitchell River National Park. The walk is partly on well-made forestry tracks and partly off-track through a mix of open forest and thick regrowth scrub with some clambering over fallen logs and some rock hopping around the “head of the falls”. Roaring Mag Falls is situated to the east of the Mitchell River and is in a location that provides spectacular views across the river valley to the escarpment beyond. The natural beauty of this location is guaranteed; however water coming over the falls is entirely dependent on heavy rains during the weeks preceding the walk. On this occasion the probability of water will be high. Nevertheless, If you enjoy being in the thick of the bush in a seldom seen location, this is a great little walk. Please be advised: Registration with the Walk Leader is required for all walks.
